ABOUT ME

I'm Dipta Prattoy Karmakar, a web developer who loves exploring new technologies and bringing creative ideas to life through coding. From designing simple interfaces to developing complex web applications, I like solving problems and learning along the way.

I'm always curious about how things work behind the scenes — that's what keeps me motivated to keep improving. My goal is to develop websites that are clean, efficient, and user-friendly, making every project a little better than the last.
